(Bridge 47 call for project proposals – guidelines)

Who we are and what we are looking for

This call for proposals is opened under the umbrella of Bridge 47 – Building Global Citizenship. Bridge 47 is a project co-created and implemented by 15 European and global civil society organizations. It mobilises and empowers global civil society to contribute to a transformation towards global justice and eradication of poverty through Global Citizenship Education. Bridge 47 is a project which believes education can help us creatively reverse negative global trends.

In the Bridge 47 project we:

- Coordinate a global network, a coalition of organizations and individuals committed to promoting Global Citizenship Education, and in particular target 4.7. of the Sustainable Development Goals. The Network builds bridges between all types of value-based education and provides a forum to exchange and work towards achieving target 4.7. together.
- Work to change policies at national, EU and global level to better recognise the essential role of Global Citizenship Education in achieving Agenda 2030, global justice and eradication of poverty.
- Build new partnerships with a broad array of stakeholders (e. g. educational institutions, private sector, forming broader coalitions of CSOs, etc.) in order to bring the ideals and practices of Global Citizenship Education to new audiences.
- Empower European and global civil society to use innovative tools and approaches for Global Citizenship Education.

Bridge 47 is not only a project, it is also a growing network of like-minded individuals and organisations who believe that positive change in the world is possible. In our current call for proposals we are looking for new partners and organisations to join us in our network and in our mission to support positive change through Global Citizenship Education and other types of value-based education.

In Bridge 47 we strive to raise capacities of Global Citizenship Education practitioners to be as innovative in their work as possible. This is where our current call for proposals comes in.

We offer you and your organization a grant for a project of up to 5 000 €¹ in total eligible cost and an invitation to a two-day design thinking workshop, to showcase what you think may be the most important educational innovation in your area and place of work.

What Bridge 47 is looking for in the project applications lies in the answer to the following question: how do we best facilitate transformative change through global citizenship education?

We are asking you and your organization to show us what one of the potential answers might look like, while taking into consideration a few aspects that should constitute the core thinking behind your project. These are as follows:

¹ out of which, maximum 4 750 € will be provided by Bridge 47 and at least 250 € will have to be co-financed from the applicant's own resources.

- a) An innovative and/or experimental educational approach based on Global Citizenship Education
- b) Reaching new, unusual and innovative target groups
- c) Project activities that provide evidence of the value/importance of Global Citizenship Education
- d) Concentrating on small-scale regional or community issues
- e) Potential of the project to be easily replicated by other organisations

Why Global Citizenship Education?

Global Citizenship Education helps people develop a deep and comprehensive understanding of how our world and its citizens are interdependent. With the help of such understanding, people can directly and actively participate in the political arena, make informed decisions and demand coherent policies for a more equal world from their decision-makers.

Education has been one of the key tools helping humanity counter and cope with the various issues we are facing together. Only lately has Global Citizenship Education become one of the umbrella terms that tries to bring different educational approaches into creative dialogue for the benefit of our planet. One of our key goals in Bridge 47 is to bring together practitioners of different types of value-based education, such as Human Rights Education, Development Education, Peace Education, Education for Sustainable Development, Global Education, Media Education, Anti-Discrimination, Intercultural and Postcolonial Education, Environmental and Nature Education, together, to continue building momentum for the support of value-based education everywhere in the world.

Do you and your organization work with value-based education? If yes, this call is for you.

Finance and co-financing

Co-financing requirement

The minimum co-financing requirement for the applicant is 5% of the project budget. It can come from the applicant's own resources or through third party funding. However, the own contribution cannot be payment in-kind, nor originate from any EU funds or EU programmes.

Payments

The first instalment of the grant (80% of the budget) can only be paid after the grant donor has received a signed contract. The signed contract serves as the initial payment request.

The last instalment of the grant (15% of the budget) will be paid when B47 approves the final financial and narrative reports.

Procurement

Costs must be reasonable and follow national legislation. A payment may be made against invoice without prior acceptance of a tender if the expenditure is EUR 2.500 or less. If the expenditure is more than EUR 2.500 procurement rules as stated in the PRAG chapter 4.2. a

Cost eligibility

All activity costs shall be incurred during the implementation period. The selected Grantees shall respect all financial requirements of EU related to the Bridge 47 project.

Reporting and guidance

The grant beneficiaries will provide necessary reports (narrative and financial reports accompanied by the justificatory documents), using the templates provided, including photos/pictures and information on outreach (online links, publications, website and social media statistics etc).

The beneficiaries will make themselves available for the design thinking workshop in Bratislava which will be scheduled for the beginning of the project implementation phase (March 2019).

The beneficiaries will also make themselves available for the Bridge 47 staff responsible for the sub-granting mechanism if needed at any point (with reasonable response time) during the implementation of the project. This communication will serve to continually enhance the project as well as to overcome potential problems in implementation.

Communication and visibility

The selected beneficiaries shall respect the visibility and communication requirements related to the Bridge 47 project. This means the application and use of the Bridge 47 logo³ as well as the EU logo⁴ in combination with mention of EU support for the project. The beneficiaries shall respect the 2010 Communication and Visibility Manual for European Union External Actions.

³ User manual can be found here:
